A fascinating romance of Western life. It has all the dramatic power of this author's big-selling "Buell Hampton," who appears again as a leading character in this story.

No novelist knows the West as well as Willis George Emerson, and his new book is full of true pictures of Wyoming life. The characters are real, the scenes are real, and the story pulses with unusual human interest.

It is a big novel that will delight all readers, men and women.

The Boss of the Lazy Y

A Romance of the Old-Time
Cattle Country

By Charles Alden Seltzer

A "Holy Terror" was what his mates of the Bar S. called Calumet Marston. Ruthless and selfish, he was fast becoming what is known in the West as a "bad man." Naturally he made many enemies but they did not trouble him much because of his satanic cleverness with the six-shooter.

It was, therefore, a novel experience when a slip of a girl told him to his face what a brute he was. She told him something else sometime afterwards, but in the meantime many things had happened.

"The Boss of the Lazy Y" belongs to the class of books called "cowboy literature," and its appeal is to those who have read and enjoyed such yarns as "The Virginian," "Happy Hawkins," "Hopalong Cassidy," etc.

A New American Novel

A Fascinating Story

"The writer who can make romance carry argument, who can shape propaganda into fascinating literature, has rendered an unusual service to his cause. This is the achievement of James Hay, Jr., of Washington, in his wonderful book, 'The Man Who Forgot,' issued this week.

"'The Man Who Forgot' is a superb human document, full of character, movement, color and dramatic situations. The flaming story of love, intrigue and triumph rushes through the pages with compelling sweep."—Washington correspondent of The Boston Transcript, April 14.

"The interest will not be confined to Prohibitionists. Mr. Hay has told a terse, swift story, with a strong human and personal interest. The climax is stirring, and there is much clever and entertaining character drawing."—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

"A novel of tense dramatic interest, as well as high literary merit. There is nothing of rant or sophistry in the book. It is a story of live interest splendidly told."—Hartford Post.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, writes to the Author:

"It is a story of great interest, written with a great deal of skill and force. I cannot recall reading a work which presented more forcibly the evils of intemperance than this book. Outside of the moral question so strongly portrayed, the story is very entertaining and interesting. I wish to congratulate you most highly upon being the author of a novel so fascinating and presenting so strongly a great moral question."

WHO FORGOT

By James Hay, Jr.

A Big Theme

"One of the greatest of the national political issues now confronting the American people is here presented by Mr. Hay in a strong, convincing manner. His method of statement of the prohibition question is unique. Mr. Hay treats the subject powerfully and offers one of the strongest arguments for prohibition that has yet been written." — Washington Star.

"The author's great earnestness ennobles his story throughout. Mr. Hay has written an interesting and a thoughtful book, one which will probably attract a good deal of attention and sympathy." — The New York Times.

"The dramatic episodes of a sensational popular uprising in behalf of a prohibitory amendment are nicely balanced against the direct human interest of the agitator's love affairs." — Philadelphia North American.

"This story contains that indefinable something that every artist struggles to put into his art. It is the something which grips." — Wm. A. White, Supt. Government Hospital, Washington.

The Secretary of State Writes to the Publishers:

"I am glad to commend it to the reading public. Mr. Hay has very skillfully interwoven a love story with the important features of a great moral question. He has presented an argument against the liquor traffic in such a fascinating way that his book will reach many who would not be attracted to the ordinary presentation of the case. I congratulate you upon having brought out such a book." — William Jennings Bryan.

Rufus W. Miller, D.D., of the Federal Council of Churches, says:

"The elements of a really great novel—dramatic and of swiftly-moving interest. The love of a noble woman, the play and portraiture of human motives and of a great cause are found in 'The Man Who Forgot.' A book that charms at once by its style and grips mind and heart by its great character drawing and the interest it raises. The optimism and moral issues of the twentieth century are thrillingly presented in a story that is bound to attract unnumbered thousands."

CONTRARY MARY

A rimed review by Herbert H. Fletcher
The Burrows Brothers Co., Cleveland, Ohio

Paste it on a card and put it near your stock of CONTRARY MARY.
It will interest customers.

The most imposing family trees
Have often turned out failures, utter.
When left to face life's chilling breeze
They seldom bring forth bread and butter.

So Mary found. Her income small
And not a tiny bit elastic
Could not begin to cover all—
So she planned changes somewhat drastic.

Her home was large, too large at best;
Then all traditions quickly smashing,
She took in, well—, a paying guest.
(Canst hear ancestral molars gnashing?)

He had an air of power and poise—
Was most well read, well educated.
(When he recited one of Noyes'
The whole world listened, fascinated!)

But Mary's beau since childhood days
A young Apollo, tawny-headed
Right in the race for Mary stays,

And just the time you think, "Well now
I know just how this story's ending"—
The unlooked-for occurs somehow,
Sky-high your Sherlock instinct sending.

It's deep suspense almost provokes;
Although each chapter grips you stronger,
And then it's full of worth while folks
That makes you wish the book were longer.

She wafts away your aches and pains
Like some most opportune good fairy—
Yet this, her book, where brightness reigns
Must wear ill-fittingly, "Contrary."

L'ENVOI

Of tales like this may we have more
To cheer and smooth our pathway daily.
(She made me e'en forget the war,
This sunshine-spinner, Temple Bailey!)

STEALING GOOD WILL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN.

Sellers of standardized patented, copyrighted or trade marked goods are, it has been pointed out, dealing in two quite distinct things, viz: the actual, physical articles they sell and the assurance of the worth of those articles. If a man buys a Ford automobile he buys a certain piece of machinery designed for a specific purpose; he also acquires the assurance that that piece of machinery will perform satisfactorily the service he expects it to perform. If a man buys a package of Kellogg's Corn Flakes he secures a quantity of prepared, cooked kernels of corn; he has also the satisfaction of feeling that he has a nutritious, safe and palatable food. If a man buys a copy of Churchill's "Inside of the Cup," he has in his possession not merely one pound of ink-spattered paper sewn between two covers, he knows that he has a piece of fiction which several hundred thousand people have acclaimed stimulating and suggestive.

Now, it is obvious that we have to deal with two diverse sorts of values, one concrete, one more or less intangible, but no less real. It is also obvious that with the latter sort of values the individual retailer has little or nothing to do. He buys merchandise of the manufacturer and pays the manufacturer for it. For the market reputation of the manufacturer's goods, a reputation based, perhaps, on years of effort and hundreds of thousands of dollars spent in advertising, the dealer, in any one individual case, pays comparatively nothing. The good will or trade reputation of an article is the creation primarily of its maker or manufacturer, (of the author, or his agent, the publisher). The latter may and does allow the retailer to trade upon that reputation. He may and does share it voluntarily with the purchasers of his goods. But that does not, or should not, give them any right in or to it. Good will is obtained by the expenditure, in wise union, of brains, energy and money. Intangible though it may be it has nevertheless a real property value. It can be given away, sold or stolen just as any other property can be.

It may be objected, however, that though these two sorts of value inhere in every standardized patented, trademarked or copyrighted article, it is difficult, or indeed, quite impossible, to separate them. But is it?

Unless we are mistaken, a well-known trademarked watch company once made an offer to a certain notorious price-cutting department store, in substantially these words: "You state you are cutting prices (to a point that we know is below cost to you), only to afford your customers the lowest possible prices on a standard piece of merchandise. You add that you are having difficulty in securing supplies of the article in question. We state that you are cutting prices for advertising purposes; utilizing the good will we have created—our property—to effect profitable sales in other lines of merchandise you carry. To prove our point, we will make you this offer: we will sell you all our watches you desire, at our regular prices without restriction, but on the one condition that you do not, with them, trade on our reputation, that is, that you do not sell them as Blank watches, but under some private brand name that you can select. We guarantee that the watches will be the same watches in every respect but name. Simply you will not be able to exploit our watch's reputation for what we claim to be private advertising purposes. You will, according to your own statement, serve your own public just as well, but at no trouble to yourselves." The department store is said to have ignored the offer.

Is it impossible to separate the material article and the abstract good will value added to that article by author and publisher. Let us see how it would work out in the book trade. Suppose some isolated store started out for the transient advertising gained to cut prices on "The Inside of the Cup" aforementioned. Would it not be possible for the publisher of that novel to go to that price cutter and say: "You claim your only desire is to give your customers full value received for their money. I claim that in attempting to cut prices on 'The Inside of the Cup' you are destroying the author's good will, tending to render the sale of his books at retail difficult or impossible, in short, stealing his property. If you are sincere in your protestation you will accept this offer: I will sell you all the copies you want of The Inside of the Cup, by Winston Churchill, identical word for word, book for book, in every way except your special edition will be 'The Sins of Ahinoam,' by James Smith and you are not to suggest in any way, directly or indirectly, that your book has any relation whatever to 'The Inside of the Cup.' Advertise it all you wish; create for it all the good will you can; but don't tear down for your personal gain the good will that I have built up for the original book. If it be true that all you are selling is merchandise, your patrons will be getting just as much no matter what you label it: if it is on the other hand, as I claim, true that when you sell an advertised book you are selling a piece of merchandise, which is your property, to do with as you please, and a reputation for that book which is not your property at all but mine, then your patrons will not buy your labeled book as they would buy mine."

The above conversation is, of course, an imaginary one, but by carrying the case to the point of reductio ad absurdum, it possibly makes clear a point sometimes obscured. When a retailer buys outright a standardized patented, trademarked or copyrighted article he does not, as the legal phrase runs, buy "all right, title and interest of every sort therein." The good will in the article, by common justice as well as legal precedent, remains with its creator.

"Fifteen years ago," says the "Invitation" sent out by the Program Committee of the American Booksellers' Association, "a few booksellers with wide vision, high hopes, and indomitable courage, met to discuss ways and means by which bookselling might be saved from the extinction to which it seemed doomed. These pathfinders, with rare wisdom, organized The American Booksellers' Association with 'Net Prices,' and a 'Living Discount,' as two of the things they hoped to secure. After long weary years of unremitting effort, the Association achieved these results and handed them over free of charge to every seller of books in the United States. You, Mr. Bookseller, are one of this number. Now

The American Booksellers' Association asks you to show your appreciation of its work by attending its 15th Annual Convention." The "Invitation" is well phrased. The Convention of the American Booksellers' Associations always merits attendance: this year, as the program reprinted below shows, it has a special and immediate value to every bookseller.

BOOKSELLERS' CONVENTION, 1915.

THE program of the 1915 Convention of the American Booksellers' Association is just at hand, and in its attractive and lengthy list of speakers reflects the labor which the hard-working Program Committee must have put into it.

THE PAST

"In the dark ages of the selling of books in America," they say by way of introduction, "a bookseller was one who kept a very small shop filled to suffocation with books which people did not want, and who vigorously abused the public, the publishers and every living being except himself.

"The last known specimen of this species died upon the organization of the American Booksellers' Association.

THE PRESENT

"A bookseller is one who devotes intelligent, persistent, conscientious effort to the pursuit of that which his calling implies, viz.: The selling of books; and who, with faith in his profession, confidence in his fellowmen and optimistic courage, works for that success which is the reward of honest toil.

THE FUTURE

"The future of bookselling is what the booksellers of the present determine it shall be."

The main theme of the Convention this year will be "Selling More Books." All the papers to be read will reflect some phase of this subject, and the Program Committee states that it hopes that the discussions will also be confined to this topic.

A double executive session is scheduled this year and the Program Committee hopes to make them the most important sessions of the Convention.

7:00 P. M.—Dinner at Hotel Astor.

The speakers at the banquet are not yet all arranged for, but among those who have accepted the Association's invitation, are Stephen Leacock, the author of "Nonsense Novels," and Josephine Daskam Bacon.

One attraction arranged too late for inclusion in the printed program is the garden party which Doubleday, Page & Co. are to give the Convention at Garden City, probably on Thursday afternoon. Those who remember the delightful entertainment which Doubleday, Page gave several years ago know what is in store for the conventionists this year.

BAKER & TAYLOR CO. INSTALLED IN ROOMY NEW QUARTERS.

ASIDE from the fact that the painters have been busy this week in the Baker & Taylor Company's new quarters at 354 Fourth Avenue there has been nothing to indicate to the casual visitor that it was the first week in the new home. In fact, so smoothly did the whole process of moving the half million volumes, requiring about 2000 cases, go on that all the details of the business were carried on as usual and orders were filled without delay.

The new quarters with an abundance of light from two sides afford a pleasant contrast to the old location on Union Square where a good deal of the work was done by artificial light. The ninth floor houses the offices, sample room, pricing department and shipping department, while the tenth floor is devoted to the stock. A private stairway and elevator and three or four small lifts of the dumb-waiter type connect the two floors. In all the company occupies some 37,000 square feet on the two floors.

INVESTIGATION OF PRICE-MAINTENANCE.

THE Committee on the Maintenance of Resale Prices of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America held a session in Chicago last week. This committee, it will be remembered, was appointed in the latter part of 1914 and made a preliminary report at the convention of the Chamber in Washington on February 5 of this year which was reprinted in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for February 13, 1915.

The convention at that time instructed the committee to continue its investigations, and to discover and state, if possible, the elements of the price-maintenance problem in such a way that these statements might be made the basis of a referendum or general vote of the organization members of the National Chamber.

At its Chicago sessions the committee appointed two sub-committees to prepare, respectively, statements in favor of and against the adoption of legislation in favor of the restoration of the producer's right to enter into resale price contracts.

The committee as a result of its discussion has decided, whatever form its recommendations take, the question of price-maintenance is inseparably connected with the problem of advertising.

The committee is anxious to get from every source possible (consumers, dealers, associations or others), facts, accompanied by figures and specific details, which bear upon price-maintenance and related questions such as:

(1) Is there an essential distinction between branded and unbranded goods, to the advantage of the former?

(2) Are advertised or unadvertised goods more economical to the consumer?

(3) Is legislation desirable to require merchandise to be truthfully advertised and described?

(4) Do competitive conditions prevent the making of exorbitant profits? and

(5) Does price-cutting actually reduce the value of, and hinder the distribution of, identified goods? By "identified" goods is meant goods sold under trade-mark, brand or other means of designating the producer.

Each member of the committee is authorized to receive details of such cases. These will be forwarded to the chairman, to be digested and prepared for consideration by the committee at future meetings, and such of these as are pertinent will be incorporated in its recommendations. The opportunity for co-operation from the book trade is patent.

The members of the committee are as follows: Professor Paul T. Cherington, chairman, Harvard University; George M. Courts, manufacturing stationer, Galveston, Tex.; Henry B. Joy, president, Packard Motor Car Company, Detroit, Mich.; Frank W. Whitcher, manufacturer of shoe goods, oil cloth, etc., Boston, Mass.; Professor Paul H. Neystrom, University of Minnesota; Chas. A. Stix, wholesale dry goods, St. Louis; Edward S. Rogers, lawyer, Chicago; Frank H. Armstrong, of Reid, Murdoch & Co., Chicago; James F. Finneran, retail druggist, Boston; and Frederick H. Rike, department-store president, Dayton, O.

NEW YORK BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE FIELD DAY.

ASIDE from the fact that June 26th is a Saturday, it is hereby declared a legal half-holiday—by order of the New York Booksellers' League. For on that day net prices, best-sellers, worst-sellers, and all other "carping cares" will be locked up in the office safe and the League will adjourn en masse to Staten Island for the big annual outdoor "joy-fest."

Last year the first field day was tried out as an experiment, and everybody had such a good time that "field day" became instantaneously a "regular institution"—just like the dinners down at the Brevoort. Instead of Boehm's park, however, the party is to be held this year at Midland Park Hotel and grounds at Grant City, Staten Island. This location is one of the prettiest and most accessible on the Island, and for the benefit of those who still cherish prejudicial recollections of the grafting chauffeurs who drove the "shuttle" automobiles from the station to the grounds last year it might be well to add that the trolley runs right to the grounds.

The committee in charge is arranging an elaborate program of field sports for both ladies and gentlemen. All who intend to enter the fat man's race are warned to begin training at once. It would be well to begin practicing the three-legged race with one's family rainy evenings, too. There will of course be the usual big baseball game in the afternoon, while a riotous night of bowling, dancing, etc., etc., will follow the big "feed." The committee also announces that it has in prospect "a surprise in the way of an extra attraction."

NEW YORK BOOKSELLERS' SCHOOL TO HOLD OPEN MEETING.

For the benefit of those members of the American Booksellers' Association who may remain over until Friday of Convention week, as well as for the book trade of New York City, the Booksellers' School at the West Side Y. M. C. A. in New York City will hold an open session on May 14th to which all are invited. Following the hour on literature by Van Wyck Brooks, there will be a lecture by Temple Scott on bookmaking, past and present, which will be illustrated by lantern slides and by a moving picture film showing the entire process of making a modern book; the latter will be loaned by Ginn & Co. and is a duplicate of the film which is being displayed by them at the San Francisco Exposition. Aside from the interest of the lectures by Mr. Brooks and Mr. Scott, the evening will doubtless be of especial interest to many members of the book trade as showing a real booksellers' school in action.

On April 23d, following the lecture on Italian and Spanish literature, Temple Scott took up the subject of selling by mail. A bookseller should put as much thought, he said, into the catalogs and the advertising matter that go out from his store as he does into any other feature of his business. Especially did he recommend that in his catalogs, and indeed in every department of his business, the bookseller get as much of the personal note as possible, that he recommend books personally where he honestly can; and cited the chatty little addresses with which the late Bertram Dobell used to preface his catalogs. He also emphasized the importance of the follow-up correspondence in bookselling by mail.

During the week preceding the lecture Mr. Scott had sent the following interesting list of questions to each member of the school and he discussed the answers at the close of his lecture:

1. Write a letter in reply to a lady asking for the best romance dealing with the period of Charles II of England.
2. Write a letter in reply to a communication from a gentleman asking for books which would give him some information of the social life of England in Shakespeare's time.
3. What book would you recommend to a customer who wanted a work on the Clans and Tartans of Scotland?
4. Give the names of the novels in which the following characters occur: The Golden Dustman, Miss Mowcher, The Man whose moustache went up and whose nose went down whenever he laughed, Dominic Sampson, Javert, Doctor Primrose, Dick Swiveller, Parson Adams and Newman Noggs.
5. Who wrote "The Letters to Clarinda," "The Bonealtier Ballads," "Ingoldsby Legends," "Doctor Syntax in Search of a Wife," "The Federalist," and "Ettrick Shepherd's Tales." What editions of these would you recommend a customer to buy?
6. Which "Life of Christ" would you recommend to (1) a Congregationalist; (2) an Episcopalian; (3) a Unitarian?

WASHINGTON PRICE-CUTTING DRUGGIST SUES MANUFACTURERS OF BEECH-NUT GUM AND THE RIKER-HEGEMAN CO.

CLAIMS RE-SALE PRICE AGREEMENTS VIOLATE ANTI-TRUST LAW.

James O'Donnell, who has won price-cutting suits against the Sanatogen and Gillette safety razor people has brought suit in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia against the Beech-Nut Packing Company for "the sum of $10,000, and three-fold that amount, to wit, $30,000 and costs of this suit," claiming that the company's agreements with jobbers and retailers whereby they refuse to sell to him unless he signs an agreement to maintain prices are "unlawful and in restraint of trade." Aside from the exemplification of the effectiveness of the Beech-Nut policy of price maintenance, without the aid of patent monopoly, the suit is of interest in that it is one of the first cases to invoke the new anti-trust laws against a manufacturer who tries indirectly to control his product from factory to consumer.

Although Beech-Nut gum is a comparatively new product the company has been able to get such effective jobber and retailer agreements that since December 9th, 1914. O'Donnell, who claims to do $10,000 worth of gum business a year, has been unable to fill the numerous demands which are made upon him daily for Beech-Nut gum. About April 5th of the current year the manufacturer modified the expedient resorted to last December of refusing to sell or allow jobbers to supply a price-cutter (unless the latter would enter into the agreement to maintain prices) and adopted a slightly different policy, whereby, inferentially, there was no flat refusal to sell to O'Donnell or any other price-cutter but rather a proposition whereby the price-cutter would be supplied but only at what he terms "an exorbitant and prohibitive price." This last policy is the basis for the charges in the third count of the O'Donnell complaint to the effect that the Beech-Nut Company sells to others at a less price than it will sell to the cut-rate firm, and consequently "does discriminate in price between different purchasers of commodities."

In an interesting reversal of expected conditions O'Donnell has also sued the Riker-Hegeman Company of New York themselves not without some reputation for price-cutting, on the same charge and for the same amount in connection with their refusal to sell him "Mary Garden Extract," for which they are the American agent and on which also O'Donnell wishes to cut the price. Refusal to sign an agreement proffered by the Riker-Hegeman Company, the object of which was to standardize prices, resulted in the closing to O'Donnell of the ordinary channels of trade for the distribution of the article.

O'Donnell makes the ingenious claim that were he to subscribe to the price-fixing agreement proposed by these manufacturers he would himself violate the law.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BRITISH PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION

RESOLUTION PASSED CONCERNING AUSTRALASIAN RIGHTS IN AMERICAN BOOKS

On March 30, the British Publishers' Association held its annual meeting at Stationers' Hall, in London. The president, in moving the adoption of the annual report, said he had little to add to what was printed, but that he could not refrain from one note of warning to publishers. While the present, he said, is a time of war conditions and of exceptions, when peace comes the publishers will have to consider very carefully what the future of publishers in England is going to be. There is an increasing tendency to give away books on sale or return, he said, and that is exactly the danger which upset the bookselling trade. It was only the institution of the net book system which saved the bookselling trade from utter ruin. But it is up to the publishers to consider the fact that there is no one to pull the publishers out of the fire if they ever find themselves in the position in which the bookselling trade found itself. The motion was seconded and the report adopted.

Mr. Blackwood proposed a resolution dealing with the advisability of members of the association purchasing British rights in American books only in cases where the purchase included the Australasian market. He expressed the opinion that the very strongest efforts should be made to uphold their position in this matter. It seemed to him extraordinarily unjust that when they bought the British rights in an American book they should not also buy the colonial rights. His firm had always refused to buy without those rights.

Mr. Harrap, of the University Tutorial Press, seconded the motion and said special attention ought to be given to the matter at this particular time.

Mr. Longman supported the proposal, but expressed the hope that British publishers would see that American authors did not suffer in royalties by the carrying of such a rule into effect.

Mr. Spurgeon of Cassell & Co., said he did not think the American author got less royalty so far as Australia was concerned from British publishers.

Eventually the following resolution was agreed to unanimously:

"That it is advisable that members of the Publishers' Association should purchase British rights in American books only when the Australasian market is included in the purchase, and that the Secretary should obtain the signatures of members to an undertaking embodying this, such undertaking to be binding for a period of not less than three years."

The officers elected for the coming year are: Reginald J. Smith, K. C., president; James H. Blackwood, vice-president; and W. M. Meredith, treasurer.

TRADE IN CANADA QUIET BUT OPTIMISTIC.

Special Correspondence to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

Toronto, April 22.—A round of the Canadian publishing houses at the present moment shows business in an exceedingly quiet condition. Booksellers are buying from hand to mouth and in consequence there is little movement around the warehouses. From now until the early fall it is anticipated that the stagnation will continue. By that time it is confidently hoped that the European situation will have improved to such an extent as to inspire the book-buying public with more cheerfulness, while the prospect of an abundant crop with high prices will have restored general confidence in the financial condition of the country. Meanwhile it is undoubtedly hard grubbing for the bookmen, who are under heavy expense in keeping up their establishments.

That people are not buying books just now is obvious. This is unfortunately a direction in which they can practice economy easily.

Those who are readers are going back to their old favorites or else are patronizing the public libraries to a greater extent than before. The latter circumstance is proved by the circulation returns of the Toronto Public Library which are very considerably in excess of last year and that without any very marked increase in the population. This is, of course, hard on the bookseller, who is losing the sale of such books as formerly he was able to sell in fair quantities.

There has been a most decided falling off in the demand for war books. The market has been flooded with a tremendous lot of them, good, bad and indifferent, and at first they were just about the only books that were selling in the Dominion. There was naturally great curiosity to learn the causes of the war and to find out something about the countries that were at war, but after these had been exhausted and the public had become fed up on war topics there was a revulsion of feeling and war books as such are pretty much a drug on the market. Unfortunately people have not been substituting anything for these war books, and, instead, are confining their reading to the newspapers and the magazines very largely.

There has not been any great reduction in the number of novels to appear this season in Canadian editions. The publishers have made a brave showing, though the size of the editions is noticeably smaller. First orders have been disappointingly small and authors who would ordinarily sell to 5,000 copies, have slumped to 1,500, and the rest in proportion. There is simply not a market for anything at present in the book world and were it not that war orders for ammunition and supplies, and big crops were in prospect, the outlook would be serious. However, there is a streak of optimism running through the trade and once the war is over the feeling is that there will be a great boom in books. It is just a case of sitting tight.

Necessarily there is very little publishing of purely Canadian books. This department of activity which was growing to nice proportions before the war broke out, is now reduced pretty well to the vanishing point. Practically the only volume of any great importance which has appeared is Major-General Steele's "Forty Years in Canada," a book of reminiscences of more than passing interest. The work takes on a special significance in view of the fact that General Steele, who, by the way, commanded the Strathcona Horse in the Boer War, is gazetted to take command of the Second Canadian Contingent, now on the way to England. The publishers are McClelland, Goodchild & Stewart.

The same publishing house is responsible for a valuable little reference book, "The Canadian Women's Annual and Social Service Directory," edited by Emily A. E. and E. C. Weaver, which has recently appeared. It gives a resumé of the work of various women's organizations throughout the Dominion.

A new edition of "The Life of Lord Strathcona," by W. T. R. Preston, which created such a stir on its first appearance in January, is shortly to appear from the same firm and also a new and enlarged edition of Marjorie Pickthall's "The Drift of Pinions," a book of verse of singular charm, which ranks high among the works of the Canadian poets.

The only other publishers who are producing Canadian books at the present moment are J. M. Dent & Sons, who through their Toronto branch have at least four volumes in preparation. One of these, "Jean Baptiste," is a novel of habitant life in Quebec, written with much feeling and insight, by Professor J. E. Le Rossignol of the University of Nevada, an ex-Canadian, who still cherishes a deep love for the romantic land of his birth, Lower Canada.

Peter McArthur, whose contributions to the Canadian press on agricultural subjects have won him friends all over the country, has collected a number of his best essays and is bringing them out in book form under the title, "Round the Year on a Canadian Farm." The book will be ready in May.

Such other books as are in preparation will be held over until the fall season, when it is hoped that they will have a better chance.

The work of removing the plant of the Methodist Book and Publishing Company from the old Wesley Building on Richmond Street to the new building just erected on Queen Street, West is now in progress. It is expected that the office and wholesale book department will be in their new quarters by the beginning of June.

There has been a slight shifting of traveling representatives lately. E. S. Fowkes, who has been traveling from coast to coast for the Macmillan Company of Canada, goes to the Copp, Clarke Company to assume the work of George Thompson who has been added to the staff of the Oxford University Press, Canadian's Branch. Mr. Fowke's place has been taken by Mr. Pike, a newcomer from New York.

The Canadian Bookman is a new literary publication in the form of the London Nation, which is appearing monthly and is being circulated among libraries and bookbuyers. It is edited by Lindsay Crawford, literary editor of the Toronto Globe. W. A. C.

COMMUNICATIONS

THE A. S. BARNES COMPANY

April 29, 1915.

Editor THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

A NEWS ITEM in to-day's New York Sun referring to the estate of Henry B. Barnes states that Mr. Barnes' interest in A. S. Barnes & Company was found to be valueless. In order to correct any misapprehension that this item may arouse in the minds of your readers, we desire to state that the A. S. Barnes Company, incorporated in 1909, is entirely distinct and separate from the firm of A. S. Barnes & Company; which was a partnership, and was continued for a short time after the organization of this company for the purpose of closing up its affairs, but is no longer in existence.

THE A. S. BARNES COMPANY,
By John Barnes Pratt, Pres.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JAMES THIN, for many years the doyen of the Edinburgh bookselling trade, died on April 11th in his 92d year. Starting as a book-seller's apprentice in 1836 he soon owned his own shop which for half a century was the rendezvous of literary and scientific men. It is said at times to have held half a million volumes. In 1873 he was appointed publisher to the University of Edinburgh. The business also developed a large foreign and colonial connection. Since 1888 Mr. Thin's sons, George and James, have been in immediate charge of the business.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

SCOTT, FORESMAN & Co. announce May 5th as publication date for the revised "Robert's Rules of Order."

THE HOWELL Co. of Chicago has just published "Funabout Fords," a little book of Ford automobile jokes.

"THE TREASURE OF HIDDEN VALLEY," a Western romance by Willis George Emerson, will be published by the Forbes Co. on May 15th.

A CAPITAL LITTLE ANNOTATED AND CLASSIFIED BIBLIOGRAPHY of Macmillan books on the farm and garden is being sent out by the Macmillan Co.

IN MAY G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish "Pieces of the Game," a novel of intrigue and mystery in Washington social and diplomatic life by Countess de Chambrun.

GORDON CAMERON, secretary of the Stationers' and Publishers' Board of Trade, is a member of the Independent Creditors' Committee, which represents about 75,000 individual creditors of the J. B. Greenhut Company.

ISAAC PITMAN & SONS have just published "Municipal Office Organization and Management" by William Bateson, assisted by a number of experienced contributors.

MR. ROLAND HOLT, of Henry Holt & Co., returned this week from Detroit, where he lectured before the Fifth Annual meeting of the Drama League of America.

"THE HONEY BEE," Samuel Merwin's story of the working woman who hasn't caught a husband, will be published by the Bobbs-Merrill Co. on May 8th.

PETER REILLY, the Philadelphia publisher, has become sole agent for all the Hossfeld publications in this country, having taken over the Hossfeld publications formerly handled by the John Lane Co.

FRANK FARRINGTON, for five years editor of the Inland Storekeeper, has been appointed editor of Profitable Storekeeping, a trade publication to be issued by Woman's World of Chicago.

"DOODLES," just published by Houghton Mifflin Co., is a story by Emma C. Dowd of a cheerful little crippled boy who despite his physical handicap becomes the good angel to the tenement dwellers about him.

MISS J. REID, for several years in charge of publicity work for E. P. Dutton & Company, and for nearly a score of years previously doing the same sort of work for the Macmillan Company, has resigned—to take, we believe, an indefinite and well-earned vacation.

"THE RAT-PIT," the striking title of Patrick MacGill's new story of the world of too much work and too little safety, which Doran will publish on May 15th, is taken from the name of "The Rat-Pit" of Glasgow, a notorious lodging house for very poor women. The central figure in the story is a Donegal girl.

"THE LITTLE MAN AND OTHER SATIRES," a volume of studies of modern society by John Galsworthy, is published to-day by Charles Scribner's Sons. In a week or so the same publishers will publish "On the Trail," a practical camping book for girls by Lina and Adelia D. Beard. There should be an especially good market for the latter book in any community where there are Camp-Fire girls.

AN IMPORTANT WORK on the international relations of the United States has just been published by Little, Brown & Co. under the title, "Limitations on the Treaty Making Power Under the Constitution of the United States." The author, Henry St. George Tucker, is a former president of the American Bar Association, and editor of "Tucker on the Constitution."

TEMPLE BAILEY's suggestive talk on "New Ideals in Fiction," delivered March 10th before the Booksellers' Association of Philadelphia, and reprinted in part in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of April 3d, 1915, has been reprinted by the Penn Publishing Company in pamphlet form. They will be glad to send copies of it on request.

A BILL IS BEFORE THE CALIFORNIA ASSEMBLY, having already passed the Senate, which aims to forbid children under fourteen years to act as vendors on the streets. Booksellers of the state, who have magazine departments, are said to be much interested in the measure as certain magazines are sold largely by small children on the street and the passage of the bill would throw additional business into the magazine departments.

IN LAST WEEK'S ISSUE of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY it was erroneously stated that the Kellogg Toasted Corn Flakes Company case had been finally disposed of in favor of the Government. We since learn that the decision of the Federal Court at Detroit on April 14 was only upon a preliminary motion of the Kellogg Company to strike out certain allegations of the Government's petition and to dismiss the complaint. This motion was denied and at the same time the Court upheld a motion of the Government to amend its petition by the addition of certain fresh allegations.

THOSE LIPPINCOTT FARM MANUALS catch a man coming or going. If his hens are laying he is so enthusiastic he buys "Productive Poultry Husbandry" to find out how he can make them lay even more, while if they aren't laying he buys it to find out what is the matter. The man with the "biggest tomatoes in the neighborhood" buys "Productive Vegetable Growing" to learn how to make them even bigger, while the man with the runty little tomatoes buys the book and begins to prophesy about "next year." So also with the other volumes already published in this admirable series, "Productive Orchardng," "Productive Horse Husbandry," "Productive Swine Husbandry," and "Productive Feeding of Farm Animals."

TO LOVERS OF LETTERS Monday's sale at Christie's was the most interesting of all the great auctions that have been held there for the sake of the Red Cross Fund. It was manuscript day. Six pages of original MS. of the "Pickwick Papers," containing part of the account of the luncheon party on Captain Boldwig's property and Sam Weller's humorous story of the pleman and the cats was finally knocked down to Lady Werner at $2,250, and it is said to be her intention to present it to the nation. The typewritten original of "The Egotist," arranged for the stage by Meredith and Alfred Sutro, with several pages of Meredith's writing, realized $500. A collection of Stevenson letters presented by Sir Sidney Colvin aroused considerable interest. A John Galsworthy MS., "Written at Santa Barbara, California, in memory of his dog," was sold for $70. Altogether the day's proceeds were $9,850.

THE SALE OF RARE BOOKS AND AUTOGRAPHS from the libraries of William T. Gooch, H. A. Fowler, and others realized a total of $13,786.80 at the Anderson Auction Company's rooms in New York on Monday and Tuesday. A fine copy of Audubon's "Birds of America," first octavo edition, went to Henry Malkan for $300. M. J. White gave $227 for a first edition on large paper of David Carey's "Life in Paris," with illustrations by George Cruikshank. Pierce Egan's "Life in London," first edition, on large paper, with illustrations by I. R. and George Cruikshank, was obtained for $135 by Mr. Whitney. A. De Silver gave $150 for a first edition of Keats' "Endymion." On the second day the best price was $1,725, paid by Gabriel Weiss for a collected set of 106 volumes of the works of William Thackeray. The set includes various biographical and bibliographical works on Thackeray and many first editions, all handsomely bound by Riviere. Mr. Weiss also bought a collected set of first editions of the works of Charles Reade, fifty-six volumes, for $342.50. G. W. Halsey paid $175 for an autograph manuscript by Edgar A. Poe, written originally for his "Marginalia" and denying a charge of plagiarism, and $195 for a manuscript of Swinburne's essay on Victor Hugo.

Vivid romance on an Arabian Nights island where Sam Riddle slacked his thirst for adventure. He becomes secretary to an eastern sultan who has just succeeded to the throne. The sultan's court belongs to the dark ages, while the American and European colonies on the seashore lead a Monte Carlo existence. The palace of the prime minister shelters a beautiful mysterious princess. She has all the freedom of a western woman, mingles with the colony, yet retains great power among the natives. The sultan plots to force her to marry him. Then Riddle, who loves her, awakes to the seriousness of the situation. Open defiance of the sultan results in a fight for life and love.

Jardine, a young physician, discovered at midnight in an English lane the body of a murdered man dressed in clerical clothes. He informs the police, but a few moments later the corpse has disappeared. Shortly after, he finds a golden trinket, which had evidently belonged to the deceased. Somewhat later, Jardine accompanies Thorndyke, a medico-legal expert, while examining the body of Septimus Maddock, deceased, for issue of a death certificate. Thorndyke pieces together infinitesimal facts and ultimately clears up these and other mysterious circumstances, while Jardine finds himself a wife.

Stringer, Arth. [J: Arbuthnott]. The hand of peril; a novel of adventure. N. Y., Macmillan. c. '14-'15 331 p. D $1.35 n.

From the opening line, when Wilsnach, of the Paris office, says quietly over the edge of his paper to Kestner, of the U. S. Secret Service, "That's your woman!" to the moment at the close, when that woman marries—there is no let-up in the pursuit of the counterfeit gang. That woman, you see, engraves those very clever plates for the gang, and amid the shifting scenes of the hair-raising pursuit, Paris, Palermo, New York, amid the crack of the automatic pistols she is always mistress of the scene—much to the discomfiture of Kestner.

Fleming Stone, the detective of author's previous novels, has to solve the mystery of the murder of Justin Arnold, host at "The White Birches," a beautiful country place in the heights above New York. The criminal, upon well-founded circumstantial evidence, is of the house party Arnold was entertaining. Suspicion rests upon Dorothy Duncan, a beauty and flirtatious, the fiancée of the host. Stone has a baffling knot to untie, but his shrewd deductions are both successful and pleasing to the reader.

Wilson, Harry Leon. The man from home; a novel, founded upon the play by N. Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson; il. by C. H. Taffs. N. Y., Appleton. c. 307 p. pls. D $1.35 n.

American romance in a Riviera setting. Ethel and Horace Simpson are traveling with a party of impoverished English nobility, who have titles and debts galore for sale. The Earl of Newcastle plans to marry Ethel, while Horace has fallen a willing victim to the charms of a dainty French comtesse. Ethel has never met her guardian, and she imagines him a kind old man, easily coaxed into consenting to anything she might suggest, even to buying a title and debts. When he arrives at the hotel at Sorrento, the climax comes with a snap, and is the right sort for an American girl like Ethel.

Higher rates are charged for the Summer Reading, Educational Number and Christmas Bookshelf, and for the monthly Book Review supplement sections.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday night.

Under the heading "BOOKS WANTED" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for specific books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, unspecified wants, reprinted matter, and all advertisements from non-subscribers, cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "BOOKS FOR SALE" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

SCIENTIFIC AND EDUCATIONAL BOOKS

Culture of Ancient Israel

By CARL H. CORNILL. Pp. 200. 8vo; cloth. $1.00.

"No writer on Old Testament times has set forth his theme more picturesquely than Cornill. There is something intensely lifelike and oftentimes dramatic in the presentation of his subject. Thoroughly scholarly is his spirit, he is popular in his manner, and this new book is a strong addition to his two noted works on 'The History of Israel' and 'The Prophets.'"—Boston Transcript.

The Historical Christ

Or, an Investigation of the Views of Mr. J. A. Robertson, Dr. A. Drews and
Prof. W. B. Smith

By FRED CONBEARE, M.A., F.B.A. Pp. 235. 8vo; cloth. Price, $1.50 net.

"This author deals the 'Christ Myth' theories a smashing blow. A good antidote to reckless writers."—The Continent.

Robert's Rules of Order Revised

For Deliberative Assemblies

Part I. Rules of Order.

Part II. Organization and Conduct of Business.

Part III. Plans for Study of Parliamentary Law

By GENERAL HENRY M. ROBERT,
U. S. Army

This enlargement and revision of the original "Rules," published in 1876, has been made necessary by the march of time. In the present form it is thoroughly in harmony with present day practice and loses in no way the clarity and accuracy of the former book. Adapted in detail to the use of all societies, this Manual is based in general principles on the rules and practice of the Congress. The new book contains fully two-thirds more material than the last edition.

Clear type, special paper—a legible page; a handy size—"just fits the pocket."

"5 February, 1915.

"I am very glad to give you in writing what I have already told you, and that is, that I have been buying printing since '97 and manufactured about 700 books besides publishing half a dozen magazines at different times, and all things considered the Vail-Ballou Company handles our work in a more satisfactory manner than any other printer with whom we have done business.

"As we have done business with most of the big printers here and in various other states I feel that I really have had quite a lot of experience with them."

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in APRIL, 1915

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, Q, O, D, etc., books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i. e. GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.
